ITALY WILLING TO HEAR PEACE OFFER

ETHIOPIAN LAND OFFER IS MADE TO DUCE TODAY

COLLAPSE NOW FEARED

150,000 Acres of Territory Ceded Aggressor in Two-Nation Proposal

ROME, Dec. 10—(INS)—Italy probably will accept the Hoare-Laval peace proposals as a basis for negotiations, International News Service was reliably informed today.

It was made clear, however, that this did not mean Premier Mussolini would approve the plan, but rather that he would accept it as a means of opening up talks which may lead to a settlement.

Government circles at this time stated the plan had not yet been presented to Italy.

LONDON, Dec. 10—(INS)—The Hoare-Laval formula for peace in East Africa, under which Ethiopia would cede to Italy about 150,000 square miles of territory, neared collapse today when it ran into sudden, unexpected opposition of a broad portion of the British government.

Oppose Generosity
The peace proposals were discussed by the cabinet for an hour and ten minutes in a surprise session called hastily at noon. Warm discussion featured the meeting, at which several members of the cabinet strongly objected to the allegedly "generous" terms accorded Premier Benito Mussolini under the plan.

Great secrecy surrounded the meeting, the government obviously being desirous of preventing the impression going abroad that troubles were being encountered.

It was stated officially that the government's attitude was unchanged, and that there was no question of bringing pressure to

While it was raining at noon, weathermen predicted snow and colder weather later in the day.

The cold driving rain that drenched Circleville and vicinity Tuesday noon turned into one of the heaviest snowfalls of the season. Colder weather and clear skies were forecast for Wednesday.

AAA COURT FIGHT BEING CONTINUED BEFORE TRIBUNAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(INS)—The AAA stood trial today in two courts—the Supreme court and the court of public opinion.

As the Supreme court continued to hear arguments on constitutionality of the processing tax, President Roosevelt had boldly challenged foes of the AAA to make it an issue in the 1936 presidential election.

Solicitor-General Stanley Reed defended the law but Mr. Roosevelt vigorously told the American Farm Bureau federation in Chicago that the AAA had pulled the farmer out of the doldrums.

After two hours of argument in the Hoosac mills case yesterday, observers saw little to indicate the attitude of the court on the broad constitutional questions involved.

Joseph and Pierce Taken in Indiana Without Gun Being Fired; Black Identified Both

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 10—(INS)—Two Indiana "bad men" were captured here early today without a shot being fired when they were surprised in a nearby farmhouse by possemen. They were rushed here for questioning as suspects in the murder of Patrolman Frank Levy of Anderson, Ind., on Nov. 25.

The pair, Donald Joseph, 28, and Paul Pierce, 26, were both discovered to have been wounded within the past few days. Pierce was found shot through the shoulder and his pal was slightly wounded in the side. They were believed to be the same men who escaped in a gun battle here Saturday with Indianapolis detectives. Two of the officers, wounded in the gun fight, were improving today.

Pierce may lose his left arm as a result of his wound, physicians said.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10—(INS)—Col. Lynn Black, state highway patrol superintendent, today charged a series of Ohio crimes to Paul Pierce and Donald Joseph, gunmen captured near Milroy, Ind.

They have been identified as two of three bandits who robbed a local bakery and escaped with $700 on Oct. 8, he said.

Colonel Black accused them of taking part in a $400 payroll robbery in Canton and a $3,000 robbery in Warren on Oct. 22.

Following an attempted holdup in Indianapolis last Saturday in which a patrolman was shot and seriously wounded, the two men were reported to have bought gasoline and newspapers at a filling station in Allen-co.

Upper Sankusky police identified the car driven by the bandits as that which ran down and killed James Buck, 24, of Huntington, W. Va., in the Wyandot-co seat Saturday night, Black declared.

Believed suppressed through the combined influence of Castano's family and the police, the story of the kidnaping did not appear in any of the morning editions of the newspapers here.

VETERAN EDITOR, CRUSADER, SHOT BY UNDERWORLD

Walter Liggett, Foe of Gov. Olson of Minnesota, Shot as Wife Watches

LONG CAMPAIGN IS ENDED

"Kid Cann," Outlaw, Named as Slayer of Man Who Predicted Own Death

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 10—(INS)—Investigation of the sensational murder of Walter W. Liggett, crusading weekly newspaper editor, shot to death in typical gangland fashion here, disclosed today that threats had recently been made to kidnap the editor's two children.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 10—(INS)—The lid which Walter W. Liggett, veteran newspaper publisher and sensational crime crusader, vainly endeavored to clamp down on Minneapolis vice dens while he lived, dropped with a resounding clang today as the result of his assassination.

Gambling houses, bootleg and all-night liquor dispensaries and disorderly houses were locked and dark as word spread through the underworld that "the heat is on."

Liggett, arch foe of Gov. Floyd B. Olson and his Farmer-Labor state administration, was shot down in the rear of his home yesterday evening as he stepped from his auto with his arms full of groceries. He was returning from a shopping trip with his wife and 10-year-old daughter, Marda.

Suspects Questioned

Meyer Shulberg, liquor store proprietor and one of the two men taken into custody shortly after the slaying, was freed early today after three hours of questioning. Police continued to hold Isadore Blumenfeld, alias "Kid Cann," a notorious underworld character.

Mrs. Liggett, police declared, has positively identified Cann as one of her husband's assassins.

The assassination became a political issue today as rumors spread that political opponents of Gov. Olson, principal target of Liggett's vitriolic pen, would seek a legislative investigation of the ramification of Minneapolis underworld activities.

Three weeks ago Liggett was acquitted of a statutory charge against a 16-year-old high school girl. The firebrand editor and magazine writer charged political persecution was responsible for the charges against him.

Liggett, a veteran newspaper man who had worked on papers throughout the country including Socialist and Liberal publications, was publisher of the Midwest American, a local weekly.

PARDONS COURT TO HEAR BRUNO TELL HIS STORY

Gov. Hoffman, Chancellor and Six Judges to Visit Prison of Condemned

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 10—(INS)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann today was preparing to voice the final plea for his life in his own guttural accents. He was not surprised nor greatly disappointed when the United States Supreme court refused to review his conviction for the murder of Baby Lindbergh.

He had seen his lawyers fail in the state courts. He was not to be upset when they fared no better before the highest tribunal in the land.

How he is preparing to act as his own lawyer before the court of pardons in what promises to be one of the strangest scenes ever enacted in a criminal case in this state.

May Address Judges

The thrice-doomed carpenter will, according to the most reliable information, address the August court of pardons in a room of the state prison, where he now awaits death in the electric chair, if present plans of those in authority carry through.

Members of the court of pardons are Governor Harold G. Hoffman, state Chancellor Luther A. Campbell and six judges of the state court of errors and appeals. They wield the power of pardons, parole or commutation.

Never before in the history of the state has a court of pardons gone into the state prison to hear the plea of a condemned man. But neither had a governor ever gone into the state prison to interview a doomed inmate until Governor Hoffman paid his secret visit to Hauptmann in the death house on the night of last October 17.

And it was Hoffman, who said that every member of the court of pardons should personally hear Hauptmann's story. The youthful governor late yesterday admitted to reporters that the court of pardons may hear Hauptmann's story in the prison rather than in the state house.

Prison officials frankly admitted Hauptmann had no confidence in the appeal to the United States Supreme court so, in his usual calculating manner, he several weeks ago foresaw the possibility of appearing in person before the court of pardons and began to prepare himself for the occasion. It was several weeks ago he began a careful study of the records of his trial in his death house cell.

Hauptmann not only showed his lack of perturbation at the supreme court's action, but demonstrated his rhetoric as well informed of the unfavorable decision. With a shrug of his shoulders, he said:

"Well, in a way, I'm glad the legal part of it is over. Of course I am disappointed because if I have a new trial it would bring out new evidence. But I still have more faith than before."

REPLY DEADLINE TODAY

Amateur Hours Provide Chance-and-By-products

About $500 a Week Spent to Feed and Return Home Those Unable to Gain Mike Opportunity

THE AMATEUR HOUR idea has built itself up into a great industry—and like every other big industry, it has its by-products. These are human by-products, and very sad ones. For it appears, from the reports of public and private charities in the city of New York, that of the thousands of ambitious would-be artists who flock to town to be amateur performers, hundreds succeed in becoming only amateur tramps.

It is costing over $500 per week to feed and return to their homes the scores of men and women, boys and girls, who come to sing and stay to starve, or who yearn to play before the mike—only to find themselves desperately looking for work of any kind in a city that has little work to offer.

It seems that the roads to the big towns are strewn with dreams. Rosy dreams on the way in; broken dreams on the way out.

And the moral of this, boys and girls, is: Heed the frantic warnings of those who conduct amateur hours. No not head for New York in quest of fame and fortune unless you have enough money to keep yourself for quite a long time after you get there. And even then it's a long-shot gamble, with you on the short end.

Radio listeners are being asked to help Fred Waring prepare his final broadcast of 1935. This broadcast, on New Year's Eve, is to be made up of numbers which Fred and the Pennsylvanians have played during the year, and which have proved most popular with listeners. On the Waring broadcast of Dec. 10, 17 and 24, radio fans will be asked to send in the names of their favorite Waring numbers of 1935. The returns will be carefully tabulated, and the result will be a bona fide by request program.

LIBRARY IN RECEIPT OF TIMELY BOOK ON FLOWERS

At this season of the year, when one of the most popular gifts, oft he sick or well, is a pot of blooming flowers, or cheerful greenery, the amateur gardener is sometimes at a loss to know how to take the best care of such plants. The Public Library has just received the first book that completely describes how to successfully grow house plants under modern conditions.

It would seem that anyone should be able to enjoy healthy attractive house plants by following the clear, direct rules and instructions given in Marjorie Sulzer's "House plants, modern care and culture; a practical handbook for window sill gardeners."

GOVERNOR RAPS 'PARTISANSHIP'

Forgotten Promises and Faithless Legislature Hit

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10—Broken promises by the federal government and partisanship in the Ohio legislature were blamed for the present relief crisis in the state by Gov. Davey in a radio talk last night.

"Repeated assurances of the federal relief authorities that they would take care of the employables," the Governor said, were not kept and on December 1, when direct relief was cut off, "only part of the federal program was in operation." Only about 160,000 of the approximate 275,000 employables in the state are working on WPA projects.

"This threw an unexpected load on the counties that had taken advantage of state relief bonds (Carey Act)," he said, "Instead of Cleveland's being able to carry its announced portion of the relief problem for about five months, they will run out of the funds in about a month and a half."

The Legislature was blamed for not acting on his proposal, submitted Sept. 18 to create a state relief commission. The bill was introduced by Senator Bernard R. Donovan (D) Toledo, but referred to committee where it died. "If this bill had passed as I urged very earnestly the State would have had the funds in readiness weeks ago," the Governor said. "Part of the trouble is blind partisanship."

Mr. Davey also took occasion to criticize the defeat of Carey Act bond issues in numerous counties are technically county obligations.

Under this act we provided 15 million dollars, which would have been ample to take care of the unemployed for per-months, depending upon local conditions ranging from five to 12 months."

The Governor insisted that relief money should be spent by local officials for useful public works. "It was a colossal mistake to build up a hastily-constructed national organization of untrained and untried persons to administer relief far away from the place or places where the decisions had to be made."

Having 5 cards of a suit, divided 3-2 between declarer and dummy, with K in one hand and Q in the other hand, do not attempt to win the first trick with either K or Q, and results will average better in the long run. The holding comes up every few weeks. An example of the hand is given today.

♣ Q 8

Bidding went: North, 1-No Trump; South, 2-Diamonds; North, 2-No Trumps; South, 3-Diamonds; North, 3-No Trumps.

The opening lead was the 7 of clubs, showing a single higher card in West's hand (Ace, J, 10 or 9). If West held the Ace, declarer was good for two clubs, otherwise he never could win more than a single club trick if West held at least two cards of the suit and the K of diamonds for entry. Dummy's 8 forced West's

J, and it was allowed to hold the trick. Back came the 5 and East had to play his Ace or lose the trick. The 3 of clubs lost to the K. West discarded his lowest heart.

Declarer's 9 of diamonds lost to West's K. East discarded the 3 of hearts. Having no more clubs, West led his partner the 4 of spades, but declarer would not fall for that. He discarded his Ace, then ran off 5 diamond tricks. On the last 2 of which North let go his Q and J of spades. If East held both the K of spades, as his play indicated, and the Q of hearts, he could be squeezed, as dummy's 10 of spades was just as good as declarer's Q and J. At the end of the tenth trick the players held the following cards.

♠ A J 10
♥ A J 10
♦ K 6
♣ 8 5

♠ K 6
♥ Q 9 7 3
♦ A 10 9
♣ 7 6 4

When East held on to his K of spades, dummy's K of hearts was played at the eleventh trick. East's 9 fell—the second highest card of the suit, but whether that player had false carded and still held the 8, or had the bare Q, declarer could not tell. In any event he took no chances. When dummy's last heart was led North played the Ace, to make certain of game. East's Q fell, making the J good for the tenth offensive trick. Had declarer won the first club trick he never would have game.

Questions and Answers

What is the best temperature to use in roasting turkey and chicken?

Turkey, chicken, duck and goose all require about the same oven temperatures for most perfect roasting. Usually the fowl is seared in an oven preheated to 450 to 500 degrees. In the case of turkey, water should be added to help steam the bird to tenderness. Chicken, duck and goose do not require as much water. After searing the fowl for 20 to 25 minutes, the temperature should be reduced to 350 degrees for the remaining time, allowing 20 to 25 minutes per pound.

Please tell me how to make apple lollypops or apples-on-a-stick.

Apples-on-a-stick or apple lollypops, are great fun for the youngsters to make, and are delicious to eat. Use these ingredients:

Apples-on-a-Stick
1 C. corn syrup
1 C. sugar
12 even sized small apples
12 (6-inch) wooden skewers

Remove stem end from apple and stick pointed end of the skewer upright in its place. Put syrup and sugar in small sauce pan over heat. The top of a two-quart size double boiler is a good pan to use. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Let boil undisturbed until a few drops poured in cold water become brittle. Place the pan at once over boiling water. Dip the whole apples one at a time, quickly in and out of the syrup until well coated. Place, with skewers upright, on a buttered platter to cool and harden.

Do you have a recipe for apple spice cookies? They are a fruity, spice cookie which keeps moist for a long time.

Apple Sauce Cookie:
½ C. shortening
1 C. sugar
1 egg
2 C. flour
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. soda
1 tsp. baking powder
1 C. thick unsweetened apple sauce

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, creaming continuously. Whip in egg. Mix dry ingredients thoroughly and add alternately with the apple sauce, adding flour first and last. Drop from a spoon on a cookie sheet about 2 inches apart. Bake at 350 degrees until nicely browned. Remove the cookies from the sheet before they cool with a spatula. One-half cup of nuts or raisins may be added to the mixture for a fruity cookie.

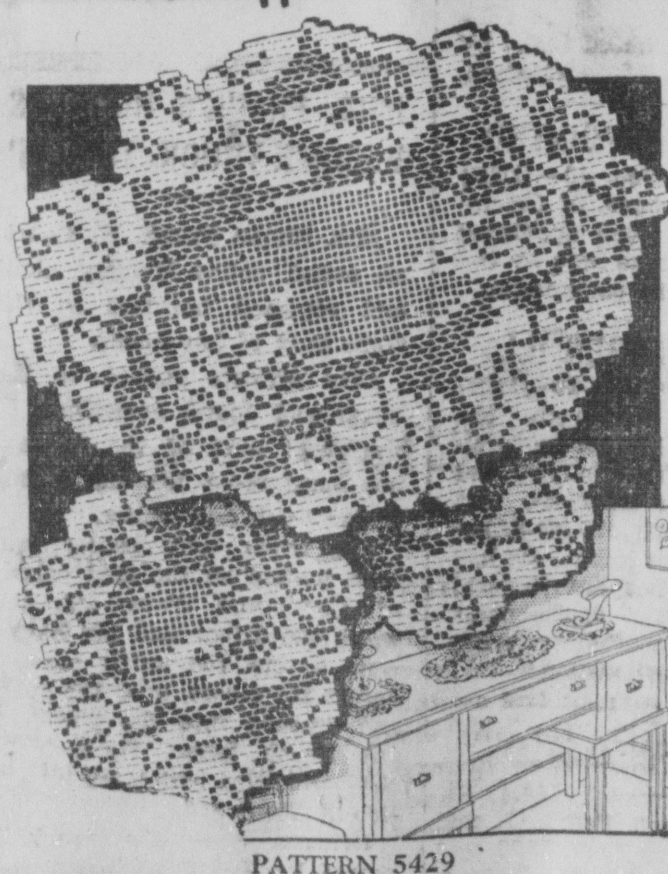

Will you give me the proportions for a pumpkin pie filling using canned milk?

Your favorite pumpkin pie filling may be used, if you like, substituting the canned milk where you always used whole milk, or water. These proportions, however, make a smooth filling:

Pumpkin Pie Filling
¾ C. brown sugar
1 Tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. ginger
½ tsp. cloves
1½ C. canned pumpkin
1½ C. canned milk
1 slightly beaten egg
2 Tbsp. molasses

Mix dry ingredients first, then add liquid ingredients with egg and molasses. The small quantity of egg required makes this recipe desirable.

Roosevelt and Aides Satisfied With Long Trip

President Pleased with Reception at Notre Dame and Farm Bureau Meeting

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(INS)—President Roosevelt was returning to G. H. Q. in Washington to consolidate his battle lines after a comprehensive survey of political fronts in central and southern states.

Field marshals with the president were listing several gains in the fight for re-election, notably:

1. Cardinal Mundelein's whole-hearted endorsement at Notre Dame of the Roosevelt administration in language generally interpreted as a rebuke to Archbishop Curley of Baltimore, Supreme Knight Michael Carmody, of the Knights of Columbus, and other prominent Catholics who have been criticizing the president.

Talmadge Falls Short

Assurances from Georgia leaders that Governor Eugene Talmadge would be beaten if he opposes Mr. Roosevelt in a state primary, and that the red gallused governor will fail to stack up as a national political figure.

3. Receipts of the American Farm Bureau Federations annual medal, while addressing that organization in the Chicago stockyards, for having made the greatest contribution of any individual to agricultural welfare during the past year.

4. Cordial receptions at Toledo, Ohio, and Chattanooga, Tenn., where the president made rear platform appearances.

As the president's train sped homeward, most comment among the Roosevelt aides centered around the Notre Dame reception and Cardinal Mundelein's remarks. Bearing in mind that Carmody, of the Knights of Columbus, had attacked Mr. Roosevelt for not calling Mexico specifically to task about Catholic persecutions, and that Archbishop Curley's Baltimore Catholic Review had deplored Notre Dame's action in awarding the president a degree, E. D. R.'s political lieutenants kept reading and re-reading this paragraph from Mundelein's speech:

Re-read Paragraph

"We are not in politics, neither the church nor I. No individual cardinal, bishop or priest, no organization of laymen or Catholic newspaper has the right to speak for the twenty million Catholics in this country in matters of politics. Only the bishops of the country together, in conference or in council—and they have not done so—can take such action, so we do not wish our words to be interpreted in that sense. I can only repeat again in public what I said to the president in private when he spoke of his purpose to levy a more equitable tax on great wealth and great incomes—it is something that should have been done long ago. But oh, it will take a lot of courage to do so and carry it through."

YOUNG BANDITS HUNTED AFTER COLUMBUS JOBS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—(INS)—Two youthful bandits, armed with a sawed off shotgun and a brace of revolvers, today were sought by police here after obtaining $75 in two robberies and commandeering a motorist in an attempt to elude their pursuers.

The bandits entered a local grocery store, herded W. L. Boggs, manager, three clerks and a customer into a rear room and then made their escape, taking $50. Later police identified descriptions of the pair as the bandits who held up a filling station, robbed the attendant of $20 and then forced Sam Shulman, bakery truck driver, to aid them to escape.

TWO INSTANTLY KILLED IN DELAWARE ACCIDENT

DELAWARE, Dec. 10.—(INS)—Frank Axthelm, 48, Ashley farmer and his son Kenneth, 22, were instantly killed and Mrs. Margaret Axthelm, 20, the son's wife, was near death today after their car crashed into a passenger train. The tragedy occurred as the Axthelm's automobile stalled on a railroad crossing in the village of Ashley, near here. The senior Axthelm's daughter Marquita, 14, suffered severe head injuries when she attempted to jump from the stalled car.

DIET AND HEALTH New Family Medical Book Written by Many Doctors

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I REMEMBER it very well, the old family medical book. I think it was Dr. Winslow's. It was bound in leather and stood on the top of the oak dresser in father and mother's room. I was diagnosed out of it over and over again, and it worked pretty well. They usually could tell at least whether the condition was serious or unimportant, or whether they did not know what it was. When they made a diagnosis of measles or scarlet fever or mumps, they called Dr. Streett or Dr. Jenny over to confirm it, and usually it turned out that the doctor book was right—that that's what I had. And it wasn't very often that when the doctor book didn't know what I had, the doctor knew either. Well, we have a brand new up-to-date, modern kind of a doctor book, "The Modern Home Medical Adviser—Your Health and How to Preserve It". It is edited by Dr. Morris Fishbein, the secretary of the American Medical Association. He had a large staff of doctors to help him write the different chapters. For instance, "The Care and Feeding of the Child" is written by Dr. Jeans of the University of Iowa. The chapter on "Diabetes" is by Dr. Elliott P. Joslin of Boston. "Blood Pressure" is discussed by Dr. Wingate M. Johnson. "Advice on Diet" by Dr. Solomon Strouse of Chicago. "Sex Hygiene" by Dr. Thurman B. Rice of the department of public health of Indiana.

Complete, Up to Date It is certainly complete and up to date and can be generally recommended.

mended. I quote a few of the things said by different people: Crying in Children: "A certain amount of crying daily serves a useful purpose. It is a form of exercise and constitutes a large part of the exercise a young baby gets. Also, in the very young, crying helps to expand the lungs. Crying is sometimes excessive. Such crying is usually due to discomfort." Thumb Sucking: "The harm of thumb sucking is chiefly the resulting jaw and tooth deformity. This habit in moderation probably does no harm, but since it is impossible to state any dividing line between that which is and that which is not harmful, the safest plan is not to permit it in any degree as a habit." "The heart of a child at birth weighs less than an ounce; that of an adult, a half pound. The energy which causes the heart to contract develops in some nervous tissue called the pacemaker of the heart. Apparently its energy is the equivalent of a thousandth of a volt." "One of the most impressive features in recent discoveries regarding the relation of food to health and vitality is that the benefit of better feeding usually becomes fully apparent only when it is continued throughout a large part of the life cycle, and often the benefit is greater to the second generation than to the first." "Census figures from Great Britain show that the average number of persons more than 100 in the British Isles is about 110, and that 80 of this number are women." "One of the real problems we have to face is to make the lives of the aged happier and healthier. They must realize their own shortcomings in regard to strength and ability to throw off disease, while those around them should always take into consideration the changes which come with advanced age. If older persons observe the simple rules of health, there is no reason why their declining years should not be happy."

16 COAL MINERS BLAST VICTIMS

Small Canadian Town Scene of Tragic Exposition

COALHURST, ALBERTA, Dec. 10.—(INS)—Misery and sorrow enshrouded this little coal mining town today as 16 miners lay dead—fifteen of them in humble homes and one beneath tons of debris deep in a mine shaft—the result of a terrific gas blast at the 500-foot level of the Lethbridge collieries mine.

Three miners were seriously injured. Eleven others escaped unscathed.

The bodies of the victims, taken from the shaft amid the weeping, wailing and praying of 200 men, women and children, were battered and scorched from fallen rock and searing gas flames.

The buried body of the sixteen victim was located and is to be extricated today.

The mine has been working on "slack time," else 200 men would have been underground at the time of the blast.

The blast, believed to have been caused when sparks from a telephone wire ignited gas, occurred shortly after the night shift went to work late yesterday.

Force of the explosion was felt on the surface. A few moments later an injured miner painfully crawled to a telephone and gave the alarm to the surface. Raised to the surface, he said he was working near the main driveway at the 600-foot level when he was suddenly hurled from his feet and burned by flaming gas.

LIEN SOUGHT ON LAND

NEW LEXINGTON.—(INS)—A suit to obtain lien on some of the most productive coal lands in Perry-co has been filed by Prosecuting Attorney T. B. Williams on behalf of County Treasurer J. L. Guy against W. A. Gosline, Jr., and Maris G. Berdard, children of the late William A. Gosline, Sr., land operators of the Gosline Coal Co. The suit is to obtain payment of $3,338.46 delinquent taxes covering a period of three years. Twenty-one parcels of land are involved.

Fall resigned from the Harding cabinet as a result of the Teapot Dome oil scandals. Later he was convicted of accepting a bribe and served a one-year prison term.

A broken piece of belt was found near the man's body. Deckard was thrown from an auto Saturday and left to die of exposure after being robbed of $30, a coroner's verdict reported.

Grade 2

After reading the story of "Grandmother's Churn," the second grade decided to make butter. Ned Wilson brought the churn. Nancy Green, Billy Neal, Norma Jean Graham, Georgia Glandon and Emerson Braskett brought sour cream. Everyone had a chance to help make the butter. After the butter was made we spread it on ginger bread which Robert Rodgers brought. We had enough ginger bread and butter left to give each one in the first grade a piece.

The rest of the butter we gave to the hot lunch.

Stories were written after our "feast." Here is one which Pearl Williams wrote:

"How we made butter. We put the sour cream in the churn. We turned fast until the butter started to come. Then we turned slowly. We took the butter out of the churn. We poured cold water over the butter. This washed out the buttermilk. We put salt in the butter. We put the butter on some gingerbread. We ate it. It tasted good."

Grade 3

Mary Ellen Hines, Marjorie Bowser and Jackie Melvin are on the honor roll for the second six weeks.

We have read the story of the King of the Golden Raven. Each child has reproduced the character and now are busy getting the story in play form. We intend to make booklets out of the dramatizations. With the Christmas tide approaching the boys and girls are collecting Christmas stories. As one finds a story, he reads it and tells the entire class. They are also making free-hand drawings, reproducing scenes of the Christ-Child's birth.

We are sorry that Helen Armentrout is ill with tonsillitis and hope she will be back soon to enjoy the gay festival with us. Bernard Marbarger has been absent this week but we are unable to find the cause.

In our English class we wrote dramatization of Sir Walter Raleigh and Queen Elizabeth. The best one was written by Gardner Beatty. It was acted out in class. Each day some one member of the class gives the news for the day which is a summary of the important events in the newspaper the night before. In the work training in reading daily happenings and telling them in an interesting way is being carried out.

Grade 9

The honor roll for this six weeks was made by Grace Hill and Mildred Whiteside.

The Home Economics girls are beginning a Sugar Cookery study. Beginning Monday they will make Christmas candies. For the past week they have studied and made reports on sugars and candies. Geraldine Kramer, a new girl, entered the class making a total of eight girls.

NAVAL RACE INEVITABLE

AS the naval conference approaches, it becomes increasingly clear that Japan intends to demand out-and-out equality with other leading powers. Tokio will not accept anything like the 5-5-3 ratio. It is prepared to insist upon a fleet second to none.

Well, what can the United States or any other nation do about it? Japan has resigned from the League of Nations. She has spurned agreements regarding Chinese sovereignty. She has, with impunity, flaunted world opinion.

Under these circumstances, it would be surprising indeed for the Nipponese authorities meekly to go along with what they conceive to be an undue limitation of naval strength.

Of course, this probably will mean a farflung naval race of unprecedented proportions. But even that will be in perfect harmony with the martial spirit which has pervaded every part of the so-called civilized world.

A SPLENDID CHRISTMAS

MERCHANTS predict a Christmas shopping season such as this country has not experienced in years and are making adequate preparations to take full advantage of its trade opportunities.

There is every reason why their pleasant anticipations should be fulfilled. Important to the nation is a continued decline in the number of jobless, now estimated at 9,196,000, as compared with about 14,000,000 less than three years ago.

One of the most optimistic notes heard from an official source since the present upswing started is sounded in the ordinarily cautious federal reserve bulletin, wherein it is concluded that the United States is undergoing the most substantial economic advance since the depression began and that every sign points to a continuance of the forward movement.

No less hopeful is the American Federation of Labor, which finds that the United States now stands on the threshold of an industrial boom, while the federal housing commission finds a "growing trend toward recovery in the building trades throughout the country."

The business people, it seems, have a basis for their optimism. It does indeed look like a splendid Christmas in this vicinity and throughout the country.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

The average politician views with horror the prospect of prohibition's resurrection as a national issue.

There are exceptions. Statesmen from unmistakably wet constituencies see chances of capitalizing a renewal of the dry threat to their own advantage. Those from unmistakably dry bailiwicks still more decidedly welcome indications of a revival of the old slogan's popularity. Repeal left them for awhile with "nowhere to go." Now they begin to think that they glimpse a destination again. Even if they never arrive at it a second time, the vision at least is something to fight toward—and be re-elected on by doing so.

But the average? Suspicion is awakening in the average public man's breast that sentiment among his home folk is more doubtful than he thought it was. And, very recently, he has been arriving at the conclusion that this doubtfulness is increasing.

DRYS ALARM

The dries, in short, have alarmed the average lawmaker by the vigor of their "come-back" at their late gathering in St. Louis.

Not that he considers national prohibition likely to be re-voted in a hurry.

What terrifies him is the danger of a long period of uncertainty (growing uncertainty), as between the dates of the eighteenth constitutional amendment's submission and repeal.

ANOTHER DOUBT

Politicians recognize that national prohibition was enacted at a juncture of wartime hysteria. It took them years to realize that it WAS hysteria. Now they are starting to wonder whether it wasn't repealed at a juncture of depression hysteria. Wetness gained ground during the dry era.

Hasn't a dry wave set in with repeal?

If so, the whole situation is jumbled up again.

A FEDERAL ISSUE?

Honest politicians (some of them are honest) never did regard the wet-and-dry question as one for the federal government to deal with.

They were interested in such issues as the tariff, states versus federal rights, taxation, miscellaneous economics, national defense. These were subjects on which they felt that they could talk sense, argue, make converts. But they realized, during prohibition days, that they had to stand or fall on the strength of their wet or dry professions—not convictions.

Any number of wets had to run

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

NEW DEALERS OPEN FIRE ON OPPONENTS WITHOUT BOTHERING TO DECLARE WAR.

WASHINGTON — That thunder you have been hearing on the left the last few weeks is the New Deal staging a political counter-attack.

The bombardment of rhetoric by Administration big shots is not a coincidence. It is a carefully mapped out plan of political strategy.

The New Dealers have taken a leaf from the book of modern military methods and have opened fire on their opponents without bothering to proclaim a formal state of war.

Here is the record of operations: Major speech by the President in Atlanta, Ga. Another in Chicago. Both campaign addresses.

Slashing attack on Administration foes by Secretary Ickes in Detroit, Mich.

Aggressive defense of AAA by Secretary Wallace in New York.

Speaking tour by Work Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins, featuring warm defense of New Deal relief expenditures and policies.

Several speeches by Undersecretary Rex Tugwell, proclaiming the Administration's determination to adhere to liberal tenets.

Prediction by Big Jim Farley that Roosevelt will be re-elected in 1936, carrying as many states as he did four years ago.

The Administration has set itself a stiff job, if it intends to keep up this pace all year.

NAZI DIPLOMAT

Herr Herbert Scholz is first secretary of the German Embassy, in charge of Nazi cultural activities. The other day, while attending a diplomatic function, he got into a conversation with the Counselor of the Swedish Legation, Baron Johan Beck-Friis.

Baron Beck-Friis is a sort of milk-and-crackers-looking person, but actually he's just the opposite.

"I understand," said Herr Scholz, "you do not like Germany."

"I am fond of the German people," replied Baron Beck-Friis.

"In other words, you don't like Germany since 1933." (The year the Hitler Government came into power.)

"Exactly," replied Beck-Friis.

"Well, you don't have to worry," shot back Scholz. "In two years France, and in twenty years Sweden will be a part of the Nazi Empire and you will like it."

Everything is ready for an "extended probe" by a congressional committee of lobbying. A congressional probe that wasn't extended would be news.

A cynic is a chap who has reached the conclusion that the government is best which places the most money at the disposal of governing officials.

There is only one possible answer to the frequently recurring question of who is going to pay for the last war. The ten million dead.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

By ADAM BLISS

READ THIS FIRST:

Lieutenant Kirk Larrabee is investigating the murder of Andrew Darien, a middle-aged bachelor who was stabbed to death with a carving knife as he slept in the boarding house of Alice Penny. Larrabee questions Alice in detail about the seven other boarders as well as Della Randall, the maid who reported the missing knife the evening before the murder. He learns that Darien was generally disliked and that he possessed a small fortune. Alice tells Grace, her cook, to keep a close eye on the remaining knives in the kitchen.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER 14

WITH ALL her nerves, Lucy Upham was bearing up excellently considering what had happened. She looked brighter when she came into the kitchen than I'd seen her look for months. Her eyes were shining and there was a little color in her cheeks. This morning in the living room she had been as low and depressed as the rest of us. Now that was gone.

"They're going to keep us here, Alice," she said as she took a chair at the table and sat down.

"The police?"

"Yes, I asked Lieutenant Larrabee if I couldn't leave, and he said no. Everybody has to stay until the inquest is over. Especially Miss Cambridge. She would have a lot to say about being forced to remain in a house where a murder had been committed. And poor Janet Bell. She'd be scared to death. Her hairpin was still in my hair. I hadn't had a chance to throw it away because when I had come into the kitchen from my interview with Lieutenant Larrabee, Sergeant Burke was there, and then Grace had come in, and he had gone.

My people would get out anyway after the inquest was over. They none of them, would want to stay in this house. I didn't want to stay myself, although the lease had six months to run. What I was to do and how I was going to manage with the six months' rent to pay I didn't know, unless I sold all my things and started new and just at that moment I didn't care. All I wanted to do was to get out and stay out, and never come back to 422 Gardner street.

"I was very frank with Lieutenant Larrabee and I know he appreciated my frankness," Lucy went on. "He asked me about everybody in the house, and I told him what I thought of everybody. And when he asked me who I thought had murdered Mr. Darien, I told him that the only person I could think of who might have done it was Mrs. Starmont."

Grace snorted. For some reason or other Grace is a strong champion of Mrs. Starmont.

"Not that I really accused her, I didn't. Alice, but there is no one else who could have done such an awful thing. Miss Cambridge? Can you imagine her even entering a man's room at night? Much less with a knife in her hand? Can you imagine her stealing anything, either? And I can't see Mr. Withers or Mr. Henningway, or Janet, or Mr. Talbot killing Mr. Darien. Or you, Alice."

Or me, I smiled wanly at that. Neither could I see Lucy doing it.

"So the only one I could suggest was Mrs. Starmont, and he insisted I suggest somebody. And we know nothing about her. Alice. Not a thing. And yesterday that letter came from Mrs. Chapman saying she didn't know a Helen Starmont from the man in the moon, nor anybody of her description. I was glad I gave a description of her, too, in my letter."

"So I told Lieutenant Larrabee all about the letter, and he thanked me for telling him, and wanted to see it. I went upstairs, and brought it down for him, and I must say I paid it carefully, and asked me if he could keep it for a while. So he has it."

Lucy didn't know that I had been forced to tell about the letter, too, and I didn't tell her. I didn't want to spoil her triumph.

"I told him what I'd said to you last night about Mr. Darien. How sorry I'd leave or he'd have to leave."

"Oh, you did!" I interrupted her. That meant that Larrabee had caught me in another evasion. The one about Janet Bell was bad enough but this was worse. I didn't know what he would think of me now. Probably that I had murdered Andrew Darien to keep from having to tell him to leave.

"Yes I did. I decided to be honest about everything, and when he asked me what I thought of Mr. Darien I told him, and I couldn't tell without saying something about what we had discussed last night."

I was glad I hadn't told Lucy about the $720 dollars I would have had to return to Mr. Darien if he hadn't been murdered last night. She would have felt it her duty, I suppose, to tell Larrabee. I was feeling a little bitter against her for

ter. I was sure it was necessary."

For some reason, I never knew why, I looked at Grace, and then I looked away quickly because she didn't know my eyes were on her and I didn't want her to. In all the years I had known Grace I had never seen her eyes with that deadly hate in them. They were glaring viciously at Lucy.

For a moment I wished that hadn't told Grace that I was going to take those knives upstairs with me that night. I wished I'd said nothing about the knives at all. Then I calmed down. If I couldn't trust Grace, whom could I trust? I'd trust Grace as much any day as I would Lucy. I said firmly to myself. I looked again at Grace, but although she hadn't taken her eyes off Lucy the hate was gone. That murderous hate, I thought I must have imagined it until I saw Grace's hands which were drying dishes. They were shaking so that she almost dropped a cup.

I resolved to myself that I was going to watch her closely after this. If I had determined I could trust her.

"So I told Lieutenant Larrabee all about the letter, and he thanked me for telling him, and wanted to see it. I went upstairs, and brought it down for him, and I must say I paid it carefully, and asked me if he could keep it for a while. So he has it."

Lucy didn't know that I had been forced to tell about the letter, too, and I didn't tell her. I didn't want to spoil her triumph.

I was glad I hadn't told Lucy about the $720 dollars I would have had to return to Mr. Darien if he hadn't been murdered last night. She would have felt it her duty, I suppose, to tell Larrabee. I was feeling a little bitter against her for saying so much. There was no need of that.

Then like a flash I remembered my account book in the top drawer of the desk in the sitting room. The drawer was unlocked, and if Kirk Larrabee chose to look in it, he would see the book, and he would know by the book that Andrew Darien had paid me a year's rent and board on January first. I was quite sure he would choose to look. That didn't make me any too happy and Sergeant Burke's presence in the kitchen five minutes later didn't help any, either.

"Lieutenant Larrabee would like to see you for a moment, Mrs. Penny."

It was coming. He had found the account book. I took my hands out of the pie dough, and washed them carefully in the kitchen sink, wondering what I'd say and do about it. "I wonder what he wants?" Lucy asked curiously. "You know he asked me a funny question in there and I laughed at him. Don't be snappy, Alice, but he asked me if I fully trusted you. Do you blame me for laughing?"

I didn't answer, but followed Sergeant Burke out of the kitchen. Larrabee rose from his chair when I came in and walked toward me. "Sorry to bother you, Mrs. Penny, but I wonder if you have any idea who benefits from Darien's will?"

He had asked me that before but he had probably forgotten what I said. I told him he had asked that previously. "And I've no idea."

"Are you quite sure, Mrs. Penny?"

"Of course I was sure. He hadn't found the account book, then."

"Why didn't you tell me what Mrs. Upham said about Darien last night in this room?"

"I didn't think it was important. Not important! It's very important, Mrs. Penny. And why didn't you tell me, too, that you had decided to tell Darien to go?"

"Really?" He didn't give me more time than to utter that one inconsequential word.

"And why didn't you tell me that Andrew Darien on the first of January paid you his full rent for his room and board for the year?" He pulled aside some papers on the desk, and I saw that the little black account book was there. The knife was there, too.

I couldn't answer. I just couldn't. There was nothing I could think of to clear myself.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The thrills were a-plenty in the filming of Merto-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Mutiny on the Bounty," M-G-M's great sea drama currently playing at the Cliftona Theatre.

One of the biggest thrills was experienced by a camera crew while seeking dangerous reefs through which to sail the historic "hell ship."

Accompanying the Crew

Accompanying the crew were Commander A. G. Alexander, British Royal Navy, retired, as technical director; James Havens, builder of the "Bounty," and Cameramen Lester White and James Hackett.

In a 60-foot power cruiser, the party headed for the Anapaca, Santa Cruz and San Miguel islands. En route, Havens and Commander Alexander were semi-asphyxiated in the gallery when a gas pressure line broke. Semi-conscious, the two men were rescued by their companions and revived.

A few hours out, the party ran into a terrific storm that raged unabated for twenty-four hours, repeatedly breaking the cruiser from anchorages off each of the islands.

When the party successfully landed on one of the barren islands, hundreds of seals drove the camera crew back to the boats.

Havens Shoots Eagle

Again, on a rocky promontory an eagle swooped down on Cameraman White and was killed by Havens, who is a crack-shot.

Kiwanians, Wives Hear Address by Wilby Hyde

Williamsport Meeting Enjoyed Monday Eve; Nearly 100 Attend

Wives and friends of Kiwanis club members were honored guests Monday evening when the local club held its meeting in the community house of the Methodist Episcopal church in Williamsport. Nearly 100 persons enjoyed the evening with ladies of the village church serving a splendid dinner.

Wilby G. Hyde, prominent Chillicothe attorney, was the evening's speaker. He, in an interesting manner, described a voyage to England during the past summer and told of his sojourn there.

A learned man, Mr. Hyde was able to almost carry his listeners to the shores of England and view the same scenes he enjoyed so much. He described his journeys to and from the island kingdom, told of a storm experienced during the home voyage, the modes of travel in England, many of the interesting trips he made while there to historical points. One of the highlights of his address was his description of the cathedrals, especially those in ruins.

C. E. Hill, president of the Kiwanis club, was chairman of the meeting with John H. Dunlap, Sr. introducing the speaker.

A number of guests, including all the directors and their wives of the Farmers National bank, Williamsport, who were invited by G. P. Hunsicker, attended.

Announcement was made that the Kiwanis meeting next Monday evening will include the usual supper at Hanley's tearoom at 6:30 o'clock, then a trip to the high school auditorium where motion pictures of two of Ohio State's football games will be shown. John H. Dunlap, Jr., in charge of the program next week, announced that it is possible a member of the coaching staff will be present.

HERMANN TO SUPERVISE W. P. A. WRITERS' PROJECTS

STATE DIRECTOR PUTS LOCAL MAN OVER DISTRICT 11

Material to Be Gathered for "American Guide," History of Communities

James G. Dunton, S. Court-st., state director of writers' projects in Ohio under the federal works projects administration, announced today that Karl J. Herrmann, N. Washington-st., former business manager for The Herald, had been appointed acting supervisor of federal writers' projects in WPA district No. 11.

Mr. Herrmann will supervise gathering of material for the "American Guide," a nationwide compilation which is being prepared by newspapermen, and by writers who have been of the relief rolls. Preparation of this guide will entail much research work by those appointed to the projects in checking and rewriting the history of the locality in which projects are located.

Communities Interested

Since the chief undertaking of the Writers' projects at this time is concerned with collecting and preparing material and data which will be included in the "American Guide Book" and in a proposed "Ohio Guide," the work of this organization in this district should be of interest to all historical societies, civic organizations, educational institutions, and all public spirited citizens who desire to see their home towns well and sufficiently represented in this nationwide guide book or "encyclopedia of America."

Preliminary work on this latest effort of the government to provide appropriate and worthwhile employment for professional and skilled workers, who have been on relief, has already started in some counties. It is expected that the project will be in operation in every city and county of the district within a week.

To Cover Huge Field

In addition to volunteer advisers and consultants, the work will be carried on by personnel from the relief rolls consisting of experienced or trained writers, librarians, research workers, teachers, historians, clergymen, statisticians, scientists, technical experts, and other workers with professional training or experience. A limited number of typists and other clerical help will also be included.

CHIEF'S LETTER READ

For some time the Globe Trotter, broadcasting for the Columbus Dispatch, has been boosting the Columbus toy campaign for firemen. Chief Talmer Wise of the local fire department felt firemen in some of the smaller cities should also have something to say about the toy business. He wrote the Globe Trotter and asked him to mention small cities. The chief's letter was read over the air Monday noon.

sensational editorial campaign against Gov. Olson, charging graft in the state administration and demanding impeachment of the governor.

Liggett crusaded against liquor and gambling, and charged Gov. Olson with protecting vendors of gambling devices and gamblers and with favoritism and graft in the state control of the liquor traffic.

The publisher had often predicted he would be "put on the spot" as a result of his "fearless disclosures."

A few weeks ago he was attacked and severely beaten by a gang as he emerged from a cafe. Hospital attendants frightened away a second gang of armed men who attempted to enter Liggett's hospital room while he was convalescing from the first attack. In his paper Liggett charged that Cann was the leader of the two mobs.

Police said that early yesterday Liggett and Shulberg had engaged in a bitter argument over the liquor dealers' demand that the editor stop "putting heat" on Cann in his newspaper.

Liggett's assassination recalled the similar slaying of Howard Guilford, publisher of a weekly of a more radical type than Liggett's. Guilford, a close friend of Liggett's, was murdered Sept. 6, 1934, when two unidentified men drove alongside his automobile and blazed away at him with a shotgun.

Liggett demanded apprehension of the slayers and in his editorial columns charged Gov. Olson with responsibility for the murder, declaring Guilford's exposure of Olson's "graft" had made his killing necessary to the Olson administration.

Witnessed by Family

There were no witnesses to Liggett's assassination besides Mrs. Liggett and their daughter.

His wife told police the slayer's car was parked in the alley in the rear of their home, apparently awaiting their return from the shopping trip.

As her husband stepped from the auto, his arms full of packages, three shots rang out in quick succession and Liggett fell, the groceries spewing over the ground.

Mrs. Liggett leaped from the auto and rushed to the side of her dying husband.

Little Marda was stunned for a moment, then screamed: "Don't die daddy, don't die!"

The slayer's car raced down the alley, turning the corner with a screech of the tires, and disappeared.

In addition to his newspaper and magazine work, Liggett had written a number of books, including "The Rise of Herbert Hoover" and "Pioneers of Justice."

In 1929 he was called as a witness before the District of Columbia grand jury to substantiate charges that thousands of boot-

JAPAN DEMANDS NAVY EQUALITY

5-5-3 Ration Favored By Davis, Hit By Nippon

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(INS)—Japan's demand for equality and a common upper limit placed the five-power naval conference on the verge of crisis today as the delegates down to their first business session.

With the parley heading toward a rocky path while still in its swaddling clothes, Norman H. Davis, leader of the American contingent, supported the present 5-5-3 ratio, which Japan opposes, and declared this system had been successful for thirteen years in maintaining peace and security.

French Ambassador Charles Corbin suggested limitation of total tonnage. If this proposal is supported by the Japanese, it will face stiff opposition from the United States and Britain.

Admiral Osami is expected to answer questions clarifying the Japanese position at the next meeting tomorrow afternoon. Other delegates consider the Japanese demand for a common upper limit of tonnage to be still some what vaguely presented.

He will be asked whether his plan is intended to embrace all navies, including Russia's.

bear upon Ethiopia regarding a settlement. The British insist that any agreement must be equally acceptable to Italy, Ethiopia, and the League of Nations.

Nevertheless, these assertions in themselves indicated trouble, since most Geneva and Addis Ababa sources have labelled the Hoare-Laval plan unacceptable.

Despite authoritative reports that the cabinet had approved the plan in a late session last night, it was admitted while today's meeting was being held that no decision on approving the plan had been reached.

Furthermore, it was admitted discussion of the peace plan was not concluded last night.

At the crux of the crisis lay the charge of many high members of the government that Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare had agreed to the plan with Laval by granting concessions to Italy for which he had no authorization from his home government.

The plan, although its details are secret, is reliably reported to have gone far beyond that offered by the league last October in placating Italy, and reportedly demands far more from Ethiopia than that which the Emperor rejected in October.

Heading the London opposition to Sir Samuel's action and his plan was his youthful colleague, Anthony Eden, minister for league affairs whose activities in the Italo-Ethiopian controversy have earned him the title in Rome of "Italy's Public Enemy No. 1."

ETHIOPIAN LAND OFFER IS MADE TO DUCE TODAY

Eden, Many Other British Leaders, However, Oppose
Hoare and Laval Pact

COLLAPSE NOW FEARED

150,000 Acres of Territory
Ceded Aggressor in Two-
Nation Proposal

ROME, Dec. 10.—(INS)—Italy
probably will accept the Hoare-Laval peace proposals as a basis for negotiations, International News Service was reliably informed today.

It was made clear, however, that this did not mean Premier Mussolini would approve the plan, but rather that he would accept it as a means of opening up talks which may lead to a settlement.

Government circles at this time stated the plan had not yet been presented to Italy.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(INS)—The Hoare-Laval formula for peace in East Africa, under which Ethiopia would cede to Italy about 150,000 square miles of territory, neared collapse today when it ran into sudden, unexpected opposition of a good portion of the British government.

Oppose Generosity

The peace proposals were discussed by the cabinet for an hour and ten minutes in a surprise session called hastily at noon. Warm discussion featured the meeting, at which several members of the cabinet strongly objected to the allegedly "generous" terms accorded Premier Benito Mussolini under the plan.

Great secrecy surrounded the meeting, the government obviously being desirous of preventing the impression going abroad that troubles were being encountered.

It was stated officially that the government's attitude was unchanged, and that there was no question of bringing pressure to bear.

SCIOTO REACHES 12-FOOT STAGE

Melting Snow and Rain Boost
River Six Feet in Day

Much snow and rain in north-central Ohio today had resulted in the Scioto river reaching its highest stage in a long while. Dr.
H. R. Clarke, weather man, reported the stream at the 12-foot stage, six feet higher than 24 hours ago.

While it was raining at noon, weathermen predicted snow and colder weather later in the day.

The cold driving rain that drenched Circleville and vicinity
Tuesday noon turned into one of the heaviest snowfalls of the season. Colder weather and clear skies were forecast for Wednesday.

AAA COURT FIGHT BEING CONTINUED BEFORE TRIBUNAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(INS)—
The AAA stood trial today in two courts—the Supreme court and the court of public opinion.

As the Supreme court constitutionality of the processing tax continued to be argued, President Roosevelt had boldly challenged foes of the AAA to make it an issue in the 1936 presidential election.

Solicitor-General Stanley Reed defended the law but Mr. Roosevelt vigorously told the American Farm Bureau federation in Chicago that the AAA had pulled the farmer out of the doldrums.

After two hours of argument in the Hoosac mills case yesterday, observers saw little to indicate the attitude of the court on the broad constitutional questions involved.

DR. KERNS TO ASSUME HEALTH POST MONDAY

2 Outlaws, Blamed for Ohio Robberies, Caught

Joseph and Pierce Taken in Indiana Without Gun Being Fired;
Black Identified Both

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 10.—(INS)—Two Indiana "bad men" were captured here early today without a shot being fired when they were surprised in a nearby farmhouse by possemen. They were rushed here for questioning as suspects in the murder of Patrolman Frank Levy of Anderson, Ind., on Nov. 25.

The pair, Donald Joseph, 28, and Paul Pierce, 26, were both discovered to have been wounded within the past few days. Pierce was found shot through the shoulder and his pal was slightly wounded in the side. They were believed to be the same men who escaped in a gun battle here Saturday with Indianapolis detectives. Two of the officers, wounded in the gun fight, were improving today.

Pierce may lose his left arm as a result of his wound, physicians said.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—(INS)—
Col. Lynn Black, state highway patrol superintendent, today charged a series of Ohio crimes to Paul Pierce and Donald Joseph, gunmen captured near Milroy, Ind.
They have been identified as two of three bandits who robbed a local bakery and escaped with $700 on
Oct. 8, he said.

Colonel Black accused them of taking part in a $400 payroll robbery in Canton and a $3,000 robbery in Warren on Oct. 22.

Following an attempted holdup in Indianapolis last Saturday in which a patrolman was shot and seriously wounded, the two men were reported to have bought gasoline and newspapers at a filling station in Allen-co.

Upper Sankusky police identifi-fied the car driven by the bandits
as that which ran down and killed
James Buck, 24, of Huntington,
W. Va., in the Wyandot-co seat
Saturday night, Black declared.

VETERAN EDITOR, CRUSADER, SHOT BY UNDERWORLD

Walter Liggett, Foe of Gov.
Olson of Minnesota, Shot
as Wife Watches

LONG CAMPAIGN IS ENDED

"Kid Cann," Outlaw, Named as Slayer of Man Who Predicted Own Death

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec.
10.—(INS)—Investigation of the sensational murder of Walter W. Liggett, crusading weekly newspaper editor, shot to death in typical gangland fashion here, disclosed today that threats had recently been made to kidnap the editor's two children.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 10.—(INS)—
The lid which Walter W. Liggett, veteran newspaper publisher and sensational crime crusader, vainly endeavored to clamp down on Minneapolis vice dens while he lived, dropped with a resounding clang today as the result of his assassination.

Gambling houses, booting and all-night liquor dispensaries and disorderly houses were located in dark as word spread through the underworld that "the heat is on."
Liggett, 49, was shot by a man
B. Olson and his partner, John state administration, was shot down in the rear of his home yesterday evening as he stepped from his auto with his arms full of groceries. He was returning from a shopping trip with his wife and 10-year-old daughter, Martha.

Suspects Questioned

Meyer Shulberg, liquor store proprietor and one of the two men taken into custody shortly after the slaying, was freed early today after three hours of questioning.
Police continued to hold leaders Blumenfeld, 42, "Kid Cann," a notorious underworld character.

Mrs. Liggett, police declared, has positively identified Cann as one of her husband's assailants.
The assassination became a political issue today as rumors spread that political opponents of Gov.
Olson, principal target of Liggett's vitriolic pen, would seek a legislative investigation of the ramification of Minneapolis underworld activities.

Three weeks ago Liggett was acquitted of a statutory charge against a 16-year-old high school girl. The firebrand editor and magazine writer charged political persecution was responsible for the charges against him.

Liggett, a veteran newspaper man who had worked on papers throughout the country including Socialist and Liberal publications, was publisher of the Midwest
American, a local weekly.

BRUNO COURT TO HEAR BRUNO TELL HIS STORY

Gov. Hoffman, Chancellor and Six Judges to Visit Prison of Condemned

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 10.—(INS)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann today was preparing to voice the final plea for his life in his own guttural accents. He was not surprised nor greatly disappointed when the United States Supreme court refused to review his conviction for the murder of Baby Lindbergh.

He had seen his lawyers fail in the state courts. He was not to be upset when they failed no better before the highest tribunal in the land.

How he is preparing to act as his own lawyer before the court of pardons in what promises to be one of the strangest scenes ever enacted in a criminal case in this state.

May Address Judges
The thrice-doomed carpenter will, according to the most reliable information, address the August court of pardons in a room of the state prison, where he now awaits death in the electric chair, if present plans of those in authority carry through.

Members of the court of pardons are Governor Harold G. Hoffman, state Chancellor Luther A. Campbell, and six judges of the state court of errors and appeals. They wield the power of pardons, parole or commutation.

Never before in the history of the state has a court of pardons gone into the state prison to hear the plea of a condemned man. But neither had a governor ever gone into the state prison to interview a doomed inmate until Governor Hoffman paid his secret visit to Hauptmann in the death house on the night of last October 17.

And it was Hoffman, who said that every member of the court of pardons should personally hear Hauptmann's story. The youthful governor late yesterday admitted to reporters that the court of pardons may hear Hauptmann's story in the prison rather than in the state house.

Prison officials frankly admitted Hauptmann had no confidence in the appeal to the United States Supreme court so, in his usual calculating manner, he several weeks ago foresaw the possibility of appearing in person before the court of pardons and began to prepare himself for the occasion. It was several weeks ago he began a careful study of the records of his trial in his death house cell.

Hauptmann not only showed his lack of perturbation at the supreme court's action, but demonstrated his rhetoric as well informed of the unfavorable decision. With a shrug of his shoulders, he said:

"Well, in a way, I'm glad the legal part of it is over. Of course I am disappointed because if I have a new trial it would bring out new evidence. But I still have more faith than before."

REPLY DEADLINE TODAY

Tuesday was the final day for attorneys for Mayor W. B. Cady to file their reply in common pleas court to the answer of Will J. Graham, mayor elect, in the election contest case.

The reply will probably be filed late in the afternoon.

AN IMPORTANT LESSON

TWELVE YEARS ago I learned a lesson in the proper method of playing a particular holding when declarer, at a no trumps call. Having 5 cards of a suit, divided 3-2 between declarer and dummy, with K in one hand and Q in the other hand, do not attempt to win the first trick with either K or Q, and results will average better in the long run. The holding comes up every few weeks. An example of the hand is given today.

♠ A Q J
♥ A J 10
♦ Q 9 8
♣ K 3 2

♠ 8 6 5 4
♥ 8 5 4 2
♦ K 8 4
♣ J 5

♠ 10 9 8
♥ K 6
♦ A J 10 7 6 2
♣ A 8

Bidding went: North, 1-No Trump; South, 2-Diamonds; North, 2-No Trump; South, 3-Diamonds; North, 1-No Trump.

The opening lead was the 7 of clubs, showing a single higher card in West's hand (Ace, J, 10 or 9). If West held the Ace, declarer was good. If he held the King, he never had more than a single club. West held at least two cards in the suit and the K of diamonds. Dummy's 8 forced West's game.

Figures in Night Club Slayings

VALUABLE JEWELRY STOLEN FROM HOUSE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—(INS)—Police today sought burglars who entered the apartment of Dominic P. Cooke, wealthy real estate operator here and stole jewelry valued at $6300.

It was the second time in five days that the fashionable apartment building has been the scene of sizeable jewelry thefts.

The jewelry, said by Cooke to belong to his wife, Mrs. Clara T. Cooke, was described as a diamond ring valued at $3800, another diamond ring, surrounded by 26 sapphires in a platinum setting, valued at $1500 and a wrist watch with a diamond clasp valued at $1000.

The Cooke's discovered their losses when they returned from dinner at a downtown hotel.

Five days ago, jewels valued at $2000 were stolen from the apartment of Mrs. Louis Ayres Hyde, prominent society woman. Mrs. Hyde lives within half a block of the Cooke residence.

Amateur Hours Provide Chance-and By-products

About $500 a Week Spent to Feed and Return Home Those Unable to Gain Mike Opportunity

THE AMATEUR HOUR idea has built itself up into a great industry—and like every other big industry, it has its by-products. These are human by-products, and very sad ones. For it appears, from the reports of public and private charities in the city of New York, that of the thousands of ambitious would-be artists who flock to town to be amateur performers, hundreds succeed in becoming only amateur tramps.

It is costing over $500 per week to feed and return to their homes the scores of men and women, boys and girls, who come to sing and stay to starve, or who yearn to play before the mike—only to find themselves desperately looking for work of any kind in a city that has little work to offer.

It seems that the roads to the big towns are strewn with dreams. Rosy dreams on the way in; broken dreams on the way out.

Add the moral of this, boys and girls, is: Heed the frantic warnings of those who conduct amateur hours. No not head for New York in quest of fame and fortune unless you have enough money to keep yourself for quite a long time after you get there. And even then it's a long-shot gamble, with you on the short end.

Radio listeners are being asked to help Fred Waring prepare his final broadcast of 1935. This broadcast, on New Year's Eve, is to be made up of numbers which Fred and the Pennsylvanians have played during the year, and which have proved most popular with listeners. On the Waring broadcast of Dec. 10, 17 and 24, radio fans will be asked to send in the names of their favorite Waring numbers of 1935. The returns will be carefully tabulated, and the result will be a bona fide by request program.

LIBRARY IN RECEIPT OF TIMELY BOOK ON FLOWERS

At this season of the year, when one of the most popular gifts, off he sick or well, is a pot of blooming flowers, or cheerful greenery, the amateur gardener is sometimes at a loss to know how to take the best care of such plants. The Public Library has just received the first book that completely describes how to successfully grow house plants under modern conditions.

NAVY READY TO TAKE PICKAWAY-CO RECRUITS

Lieutenant Carson R. Miller, the officer in charge, announced today.

The Naval Training Station at Great Lakes, Ill., has just completed a remodeling program and is now ready to receive recruits for training. Men enlisting at the Navy Recruiting station in Columbus will be sent to this training station for their first 12 weeks training before being assigned to a ship or Navy Service Trade school.

Apples-on-a-Stick

1 C. corn syrup
1 C. sugar
12 seven sized small apples
12 (6-inch) wooden skewers

Remove stem end from apple and stick pointed end of the skewer upright in its place. Put syrup and sugar in small sauce pan over heat. The top of a two-quart size double boiler is a good pan to use. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Let boil undisturbed until a few drops poured in cold water become brittle. Place the pan at once over boiling water. Dip the whole apples one at a time, quickly in and out of the syrup until well coated. Place, with skewers upright, on a buttered platter to cool and harden.

Do you have a recipe for apple sauce cookies? They are a fruity, spice cookie which keeps moist for a long time.

Apple Sauce Cookie

1/2 C. shortening
1 C. sugar
1 egg
1 C. flour
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. cloves
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. baking powder
1 C. thick unsweetened apple sauce

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, creaming continuously. Whip egg. Mix dry ingredients thoroughly and add alternately with the apple sauce, adding flour first and last. Drop from a spoon on a cookie sheet about 2 inches apart. Bake at 350 degrees until nicely browned. Remove the cookies from the sheet before they cool with a spatula. One-half cup of nuts or raisins may be added to the mixture for a fruity cookie.

Will you give me the proportions for a pumpkin pie filling using canned milk?

Your favorite pumpkin pie filling may be used, if you like, substituting the canned milk where you always used whole milk, or water. These proportions, however, make a smooth filling:

Pumpkin Pie Filling

1/2 C. brown sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 tsp. ginger
1/2 tsp. cloves
1/2 C. canned pumpkin
1 C. canned milk
1 slightly beaten egg
2 Tbsp. molasses

Mix dry ingredients first, then add liquid ingredients with egg and molasses. The small quantity of egg required makes this recipe desirable.

Hits at Sanctions

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

Canada "does not recognize any commitment binding Canada to adopt military sanctions" was issued from the office of Prime Minister Mackenzie King at Ottawa by Minister of Justice La Pointe, above acting prime minister in King's absence. At the same time, La Pointe declared that the statements made at Geneva by Dr. W. R. Riddell, Canadian representative at the League of Nations, proposing the embargo of key commodities like coal and oil to Italy, "represented his own personal opinion and not the views of the Canadian government."

GOVERNOR RAPS 'PARTISANSHIP'

Forgotten Promises and Faithless Legislature Hit

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—Broken promises by the federal government and partisanship in the Ohio legislature were blamed for the present relief crisis in the state by Gov. Davey in a radio talk last night.

"Repeated assurances of the federal relief authorities that they would take care of the employables," the Governor said, were not kept and on December 1, when direct relief was cut off, only part of the federal program was in operation." Only about 160,000 of the approximate 275,000 employables in the state are working on WPA projects.

"This threw an unexpected load on the counties that had taken advantage of state relief bonds (Carey Act)," he said. "Instead of Cleveland's being able to carry its announced portion of the relief problem for about five months, they will run out of the funds in about a month and a half."

The Legislature was blamed for not acting on his proposal, submitted Sept. 18 to create a state relief commission. The bill was introduced by Senator Bernard R. Donovan (D) Toledo, but referred to committee where it died. "If this bill had passed as I urged very earnestly the State would have had the funds in readiness weeks ago," the Governor said. "Part of the trouble is blind partisanship."

Mr. Davey also took occasion to criticize the defeat of Carey Act bond issues in numerous counties are technically county obligations.

ROOSEVELT AND AIDES SATISFIED WITH LONG TRIP

President Pleased with Reception at Notre Dame and Farm Bureau Meeting

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(INS)—President Roosevelt was returning to G. H. Q. in Washington to consolidate his battle lines after a comprehensive survey of political fronts in central and southern states.

Field marshals with the president were listing several gains in the fight for re-election, notably:

1. Cardinal Mundelein's wholehearted endorsement at Notre Dame of the Roosevelt administration in language generally interpreted as a rebuke to Archbishop Curley, of Baltimore, Supreme Knight Michael Carmody, of the Knights of Columbus, and other prominent Catholics who have been criticizing the president.

Taladga Falls Short

Assurances from Georgia leaders that Governor Eugene Taladga would be beaten if he opposes Mr. Roosevelt in a state primary, and that the red galvanized governor will fail to stack up as a national political figure.

3. Receipts of the American Farm Bureau Federation's annual medal, while addressing that organization in the Chicago stockyards, for having made the greatest contribution of any individual to agricultural welfare during the past year.
4. Cordial receptions at Toledo, Ohio, and Chattanooga, Tenn., where the president made rear platform appearances.

As the president's train sped homeward, most comment among the Roosevelt aides centered around the Notre Dame reception and Cardinal Mundelein's remarks. Bearing in mind that Carmody, of the Knights of Columbus, had attacked Mr. Roosevelt for not calling Mexico specifically to task about Catholic persecutions, and that Archbishop Curley's Baltimore Catholic Review had deplored Notre Dame's action in awarding the president's degree, F. D. R.'s political lieutenants kept reading and re-reading this paragraph from Mundelein's speech:

Re-read Paragraph

"We are not in politics, neither the church nor I. No individual cardinal, bishop or priest, no organization of laymen or Catholic newspaper has the right to speak for the twenty million Catholics in this country in matters of politics. Only the bishops of the country together, in conference or in council—and they have not done so—can take such action, so we do not wish our words to be interpreted in that sense. I can only repeat again in public what I said

YOUNG BANDITS HUNTED AFTER COLUMBUS JOBS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10—(INS)—Two youthful bandits, armed with a saved off shotgun and a brace of revolvers, today were sought by police here after obtaining $75 in two robberies and commandeering a motorist in an attempt to elude their pursuers.

The bandits entered a local grocery store, horded W. L. Boggs, manager, three clerks and a customer into a rear room and then made their escape, taking $50.

Later police identified descriptions of the pair as the bandits who held up a filling station, robbed the attendant of $20 and then forced Sam Shulman, bakery truck driver, to aid them to escape.

DIET AND HEALTH New Family Medical Book Written by Many Doctors

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

REMEMBER it very well, the old family medical book. I think it was Dr. Winslow's. It was bound in leather and stood on the top of the oak dresser in father and mother's room. I was diagnosed out of it over and over again, and it worked pretty well. They usually could tell at least whether the condition was serious or unimportant, or whether they did not know what it was. When they made a diagnosis of measles or scarlet fever or mumps, they called Dr. Streett or Dr. Jummy over to confirm it, and usually it turned out that the doctor book was right—that that's what I had. And it wasn't very often that when the doctor book didn't know what I had, the doctor knew either.

Well, we have a brand new up-to-date, modern kind of a doctor book, "The Modern Home Medical Adviser—Your Health and How to Preserve It." It is edited by Dr. Morris Fishbein, the secretary of the American Medical Association. He had a large staff of doctors to help him write the different chapters. For instance, "The Care and Feeding of the Child," is written by Dr. Jeana of the University of Iowa. The chapter on "Diabetes" is by Dr. Elliott P. Joslin of Boston. "Blood Pressure" is discussed by Dr. Wingate M. Johnson. "Advice on Diet" by Dr. Solomon Strouse of Chicago. "Sex Hygiene" by Dr. Thurman B. Rice of the department of public health of Indiana.

Complete, Up To Date

It is certainly complete and up to date and can be generally recommended.

I quote a few of the things said by different people:

Crying in Children: "A certain amount of crying daily serves a useful purpose. It is a form of exercise and constitutes a large part of the exercise a young baby gets. Also, in the very young, crying helps to expand the lungs. Crying is sometimes excessive. Such crying is usually due to discomfort."

Thumb Sucking: "The harm of thumb sucking is chiefly the resulting jaw and tooth deformity. This habit in moderation probably does no harm, but since it is impossible to state any dividing line between that which is and that which is not harmful, the safest plan is not to permit it in any degree as a habit."

"The heart of a child at birth weighs less than an ounce; that of an adult, a half pound. The energy which causes the heart to contract develops in some nervous tissue called the pacemaker of the heart. Apparently its energy is the equivalent of a thousandth of a volt."

"One of the most impressive features in recent discoveries regarding the relation of food to health and vitality is that the benefit of better feeding usually becomes fully apparent only when it is continued throughout a large part of the life cycle, and often the benefit is greater to the second generation than to the first."

"Census figures from Great Britain show that the average number of persons more than 100 in the British Isles is about 110, and that 80 of this number are women."

"One of the real problems we have to face is to make the lives of the aged happier and healthier. They must realize their own shortcomings in regard to strength and ability to throw off disease, while those around them should always take into consideration the changes which come with advanced age. If older persons observe the simple rules of health, there is no reason why their declining years should not be happy."

16 COAL MINERS BLAST VICTIMS

Small Canadian Town Scene of Tragic Exposition

COALHURST, ALBERTA, Dec. 10—(INS)—Misery and sorrow enshrouded this little coal mining town today as 16 miners lay dead—fifteen of them in humble homes and one beneath tons of debris deep in a mine shaft—the result of a terrific gas blast at the 500-foot level of the Lethbridge collieries mine.

Three miners were seriously injured. Eleven others escaped unscathed.

The bodies of the victims, taken from the shaft amid the weeping, wailing and praying of 200 men, women and children, were battered and scorched from fallen rock and searing gas flames.

The buried body of the sixteen victim was located and is to be exhumed today.

The mine has been working on "slack time," else 200 men would have been underground at the time of the blast.

The blast, believed to have been caused when sparks from a telephone wire ignited gas, occurred shortly after the night shift went to work late yesterday.

Force of the explosion was felt on the surface. A few moments later an injured miner painfully crawled to a telephone and gave the alarm to the surface. Raised to the surface, he said he was working near the main driveway at the 600-foot level when he was suddenly hurled from his feet and burned by flaming gas.

Grade 2

After reading the story of "Grandmother's Churn," the second grade decided to make butter. Ned Wilson brought the churn. Nancy Green, Billy Neal, Norma Jean Graham, Georgia Glandon and Emerson Braskett brought sour cream. Everyone had a chance to help make the butter. After the butter was made we spread it on ginger bread which Robert Rodgers brought. We had enough ginger bread and butter left to give each one in the first grade a piece.

The rest of the butter we gave to the hot lunch.

Stories were written after our "feast." Here is one which Pearlene Williams wrote:

"How we made butter. We put the sour cream in the churn. We turned fast until the butter started to come. Then we turned slowly. We took the butter out of the churn. We poured cold water over the butter. This washed out the buttermilk. We put salt in the butter. We put the butter on some gingerbread. We ate it. It tasted good."

Grade 3

Mary Ellen Hines, Marjorie Bowser and Jackie Melvin are on the honor roll for the second six weeks.

The third and fourth grades enjoyed their Thanksgiving program in the third grade room on Nov. 27. Many visitors were present.

Grade 6

Three pupils were able to make the honor roll for the last six weeks. They were Gladys Bowshier, Harry Bowshier and Mack Drake.

We have read the story of the King of the Golden Raven. Each child has reproduced the character and now are busy getting the story in play form. We intend to make booklets out of the dramatizations.

With the Christmas tide approaching the boys and girls are collecting Christmas stories. As one finds a story, he reads it and tells the entire class. They are also making free-hand drawings, reproducing scenes of the Christ-Child's birth.

We are sorry that Helen Armentrout is ill with tonsillitis and hope she will be back soon to enjoy the gay festival with us.

Bernard Marbarger has been absent this week but we are unable to find the cause.

Grade 7

The following people are on the honor roll this six weeks: Marjorie Hill, Lola Faye Younkin and Jack Walker.

In English we have been studying all kinds of "case use."

In Arithmetic we have been studying percents larger than 100.

Grade 8

The Eighth grade honor roll the second six weeks is as follows: Doris Hill, Jean Neal, Virginia Hill and Evan Dean.

We finished our study of Mexico in Geography by making special reports.

In our English class we wrote dramatization of Sir Walter Raleigh and Queen Elizabeth. The best one was written by Gardner Beatty. It was acted out in class. Each day some one member of the class gives the news for the day which is a summary of the important events in the newspaper the night before. In the work training in reading daily happenings and telling them in an interesting way is being carried out.

Grade 9

The honor roll for this six weeks was made by Grace Hill and Mildred Whiteside.

The Home Economics girls are beginning a Sugar Cookery study. Beginning Monday they will make Christmas candies. For the past week they have studied and made reports on sugars and candies. Geraldine Kramer, a new girl, entered the class making a total of eight girls.

Grade 10

Geraldine Kramer from Minnesota has enrolled in the Sophomore class.

The following people are on the Sophomore honor roll for this six weeks: Dorothy Beavers, Virgil Beavers, Rosemary Hennick, Audrey Johnson, Ruth Layton, Thelma Norris, Earl Wilson, Harold Wilson, Lillie M. Wilson and Marjorie Younkin.

Grade 11

The Junior class honor students for the second six weeks are Twile Sprouse, Faye McKnight, Emerson Shoots, Raymond Hott and William Beavers.

The Junior class in the keeping of the Thanksgiving spirit gave two baskets to families whom we thought were highly appreciated. We had a perfect attendance in the last week.

We have again cards from Miss J. very nice.

NAVAL RACE INEVITABLE

AS the naval conference approaches, it becomes increasingly clear that Japan intends to demand out-and-out equality with other leading powers. Tokio will not accept anything like the 5-5-3 ratio. It is prepared to insist upon a fleet second to none.

Well, what can the United States or any other nation do about it? Japan has resigned from the League of Nations. She has spurned agreements regarding Chinese sovereignty. She has, with impunity, flaunted world opinion.

Under these circumstances, it would be surprising indeed for the Nipponese authorities meekly to go along with what they conceive to be an undue limitation of naval strength.

Of course, this probably will mean a farflung naval race of unprecedented proportions. But even that will be in perfect harmony with the martial spirit which has pervaded every part of the so-called civilized world.

A SPLENDID CHRISTMAS

MERCHANTS predict a Christmas shopping season such as this country has not experienced in years and are making adequate preparations to take full advantage of its trade opportunities.

There is every reason why their pleasant anticipations should be fulfilled. Important to the nation is a continued decline in the number of jobless, now estimated at 9,196,000, as compared with about 14,000,000 less than three years ago.

One of the most optimistic notes heard from an official source since the present upswing started is sounded in the ordinarily cautious federal reserve bulletin, wherein it is concluded that the United States is undergoing the most substantial economic advance since the depression began and that every sign points to a continuance of the forward movement.

No less hopeful is the American Federation of Labor, which finds that the United States now stands on the threshold of an industrial boom, while the federal housing commission finds a "growing trend toward recovery in the building trades throughout the country."

The business people, it seems, have a basis for their optimism. It does indeed look like a splendid Christmas in this vicinity and throughout the country.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

The average politician views with horror the prospect of prohibition's resurrection as a national issue.

There are exceptions. Statesmen from unmistakably wet constituencies see chances of capitalizing a renewal of the dry threat to their own advantage. Those from unmistakably dry bailiwicks still more decidedly welcome indications of a revival of the old slogan's popularity. Repeal left them for awhile with "no where to go". Now they begin to think that they glimpse a destination again. Even if they never arrive at it a second time, the vision at least is something to fight toward—and be re-elected on by doing so.

But the average? Suspicion is awakening in the average public man's breast that sentiment among his home folk is more doubtful than he thought it was. And, very recently, he has been arriving at the conclusion that this doubtfulness is increasing.

DRYS ALARM
 The dries, in short, have alarmed the average lawmaker by the vigor of their "come-back" at their late gathering in St. Louis. Not that he considers national prohibition likely to be re-voted in a hurry. What terrifies him is the danger

NEW DEALERS OPEN FIRE ON OPPONENTS WITHOUT BOTHERING TO DECLARE WAR.

WASHINGTON — That thunder you have been hearing on the left the last few weeks is the New Deal staging a political counter-attack.

The bombardment of rhetoric by Administration big shots is not a coincidence. It is a carefully mapped out plan of political strategy.

The New Dealers have taken a leaf from the book of modern military methods and have opened fire on their opponents without bothering to proclaim a formal state of war.

Here is the record of operations: Major speech by the President in Atlanta, Ga. Another in Chicago. Both campaign addresses.

Slashing attack on Administration foes by Secretary Ickes in Detroit, Mich.

Aggressive defense of AAA by Secretary Wallace in New York.

Speaking tour by Work Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins, featuring warm defense of New Deal relief expenditures and policies.

Several speeches by Undersecretary Rex Tugwell, proclaiming the Administration's determination to adhere to liberal tenets.

Prediction by Big Jim Farley that Roosevelt will be re-elected in 1936, carrying as many states as he did four years ago.

The Administration has set itself a stiff job, if it intends to keep up this pace all year.

NAZI DIPLOMAT

Herr Herbert Scholz is first secretary of the German Embassy, in charge of Nazi cultural activities. The other day, while attending a diplomatic function, he got into a conversation with the Counselor of the Swedish Legation, Baron Johan Beck-Friis.

Baron Beck-Friis is a sort of milk-and-crackers-looking person, but actually he's just the opposite.

"I understand," said Herr Scholz, "you do not like Germany."

"I am fond of the German people," replied Baron Beck-Friis.

"In other words, you don't like Germany since 1933." (The year the Hitler Government came into power.)

"Exactly," replied Beck-Friis.

"Well, you don't have to worry," shot back Scholz. "In two years France, and in twenty years Sweden will be a part of the Nazi Empire and you will like it."

Everything is ready for an "extended probe" by a congressional committee of lobbying. A congressional probe that wasn't extended would be news.

A cynic is a chap who has reached the conclusion that the government is best which places the most money at the disposal of governing officials.

There is only one possible answer to the frequently recurring question of who is going to pay for the last war. The ten million dead.

ANOTHER DOUBT

Politicians recognize that national prohibition was enacted at a juncture of wartime hysteria.

It took them years to realize that it WAS hysteria.

Now they are starting to wonder whether it wasn't repealed at a juncture of depression hysteria.

Wetness gained ground during the dry era.

Hasn't a dry wave set in with repeal?

If so, the whole situation is jumbled up again.

A FEDERAL ISSUE?

Honest politicians (some of them are honest) never did regard the wet-and-dry question as one for the federal government to deal with.

They were interested in such issues as the tariff, states versus federal rights, taxation, miscellaneous economics, national defense. These were subjects on which they felt that they could talk sense, argue, make converts.

But they realized, during prohibition days, that they had to stand or fall on the strength of their wet or dry professions—not convictions.

Any number of wets had to run

as dries, to be elected.

A few of them had the nerve to say so. For example, Senator Cole L. Blease of South Carolina always voted in congress as a dry, but vociferously proclaimed that he was a wet—who had to vote as a dry to be elected. He said that it was more important to him to be re-elected than to uphold wet standards. At that, he was beaten as a wet in 1930, although he always had cast his vote dryly.

DRY CANDIDATES

In 1932, however, the popular flop seemed to be almost complete. Anyway, congress so interpreted it, and acted accordingly.

The vast majority of the country appeared to be exceedingly glad of it.

Yet today there manifestly is a formidable recrudescence of prohibition sentiment.

It will be quite pronounced if such a candidate as William E. Borah or Alf M. Landon is nominated on the Republican ticket for president.

Either one will get the dry vote, regardless of all else, for the White House.

Paraphrasing, President Roosevelt has been a dry in his day, too—when it served his purpose.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

ADAM BLISS

HAD THIS FIRST:

Lieutenant Kirk Larabee is investigating the murder of Andrew Darian, a middle-aged bachelor who was stabbed to death with a carving knife as he slept in the boarding house of Alice Penny. Larabee questions Alice in detail about the seven other boarders as well as Dean Randall, the maid who reported the murder. He learns that Darian was generally disliked and that he possessed a small fortune. Alice tells Grace, her cook, to keep a close eye on the remaining knives in the kitchen. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 14

WITH ALL her nerves, Lucy Upham was hearing up excellently considering what had happened. She looked brighter when she came into the kitchen than she had been for months. Her eyes were shining and there was a little color in her cheeks. This morning in the living room she had been as low and depressed as the rest of us. Now that was gone.

"We're going to keep us here, Alice," she said as she took a chair at the table and sat down.

"The police?"

"Yes, I asked Lieutenant Larabee if I couldn't leave, and he said no. Everybody has to stay until the inquest is over. He's very charming, though, and kind. Much different than I expected a policeman to be."

I agreed with her, but my heart sank when I heard that everybody was to stay. That meant meals and everybody would be cross because the police were here. Especially Miss Cambridge. She would have a lot to say about being forced to remain in a house where a murder had been committed. And poor Janet Bell. She'd be scared to death. Her hairpin was still in my hair. I hadn't had a chance to throw it away because when I had come into the kitchen from my interview with Lieutenant Larabee, Sergeant Burke was there, and then Grace had come in, and he had gone.

My people would get out anyway after the inquest was over. They none of them, would want to stay in this house. I didn't want to stay myself, although the lease had six months to run. What I was to do and how I was going to manage with the six months' rent to pay I didn't know, unless I sold all my things and started new and just at that moment I didn't care. All I wanted to do was to get out, and stay out, and never come back to 462 Gardner street.

"I was very frank with Lieutenant Larabee and I know he appreciated my frankness," Lucy went on. "He asked me about everybody in the house, and I told him what I thought of everybody. And when he asked me who I thought had murdered Mr. Darian, I told him that the only person I could think of might have done it was Mrs. Starnum."

Grace snorted. For some reason or other Grace is a strong champion of Mrs. Starnum.

"Not that I really accused her, I didn't. Alice, but there is no one else who could have done such an awful thing. Miss Cambridge? Can you imagine her even entering a man's room at night? Much less with a knife in her hand? Can you imagine her stealing anything, either? And I can't see Mr. Withers, or Mr. Hemingway, or Janet, or Mr. Talbot killing Mr. Darian. Or you, Alice."

Or me, I smiled wanly at that. Neither could I see Lucy doing it.

"So the only one I could suggest was Mrs. Starnum, and he insisted I suggest somebody. And we know nothing about her, Alice. Not a thing. And yesterday that letter came from Mr. Chapman saying she didn't know Helen Starnum first night."

The man in the moon, nor anybody of her description. I was glad I gave a description of her, too, in my letter.

"Oh, you did!" I interrupted her. "I meant that Larabee had caught me in another evasion. The one about Janet Bell was bad enough but this was worse. I didn't know what he would think of me now. Probably that I had murdered Andrew Darian to keep from having to tell him to leave."

"Yes, I did. I decided to be honest about everything, and when he asked me what I thought of Mr. Darian I told him, and I couldn't tell without saying something about what we had discussed last night."

I was glad I hadn't told Lucy about the $720 dollars I would have had to return to Mr. Darian if he hadn't been murdered last night. She would have felt it her duty, I suppose, to tell Larabee. I was feeling a little bitter against her for Grace was glaring viciously at Lucy.

ter. I was sure it was necessary. For some reason, I never knew why, I looked at Grace, and then I looked away quickly because she didn't know my eyes were on her and I didn't want her to. In all the years I had known Grace I had never seen her eyes with that deadly hate in them. They were glaring viciously at Lucy.

For a moment I wished that hadn't told Grace that I was going to take those knives upstairs with me that night. I wished I'd said nothing about the knives at all. Then I calmed down. If I couldn't trust Grace, whom could I trust? I'd trust Grace as much any day as I would Lucy. I said firmly to myself. I looked again at Grace, but although she hadn't taken her eyes off Lucy the hate was gone. That murderous hate. I thought I must have imagined it until I saw Grace's hands which were drawing dishes. They were shaking so that she almost dropped a cup.

I resolved to myself that I was going to watch her closely after this even if I had determined I could and never come back to 462 Gardner street.

"So I told Lieutenant Larabee all about the letter, and he thanked me for telling him, and wanted to see it. I went upstairs and brought it down for him, and I must say he read it carefully, and asked me if he could keep it for a while. So he has it."

Lucy didn't know that I had been forced to tell about the letter, too, and I didn't tell her. I didn't want to spoil her triumph.

"I told him what I'd said to you last night about Mr. Darian. How either I'd leave or he'd have to leave."

"Oh, you did!" I interrupted her. "I meant that Larabee had caught me in another evasion. The one about Janet Bell was bad enough but this was worse. I didn't know what he would think of me now. Probably that I had murdered Andrew Darian to keep from having to tell him to leave."

AT THE CLIFTONA

The thrills are a-plenty in the filming of Merto-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Mutiny on the Bounty." M-G-M's great sea drama currently playing at the Cliftona Theatre.

One of the biggest thrills was experienced by a camera crew while seeking dangerous reefs through which to sail the historic "hell ship."

Accompanying the crew were Commander A. G. Alexander, British Royal Navy, retired, as technical director; James Havens, builder of the "Bounty," and Cameramen Lester White and James Hackett.

In a 60-foot power cruiser, the party headed for the Anacapa, Santa Cruz and San Miguel islands. En route, Havens and Commander Alexander were semi-asphyxiated in the gallery when a gas pressure line broke. Semi-conscious, the two men were rescued by their companions and revived.

A few hours out, the party ran into a terrific storm that raged unabated for twenty-four hours, repeatedly breaking the cruiser from anchorages off each of the islands.

When the party successfully landed on one of the barren islands, hundreds of seals drove the camera crew back to the boats.

Havens Shoots Eagle. Again, on a rocky promontory an eagle swooped down on Cameraman White and was killed by Havens, who is a crack-shot.

Kiwanians, Wives Hear Address by Wilby Hyde

Williamsport Meeting Enjoyed Monday Eve; Nearly 100 Attend

Wives and friends of Kiwanis club members were honored guests Monday evening when the local club held its meeting in the community house of the Methodist Episcopal church in Williamsport. Nearly 100 persons enjoyed the evening with ladies of the village church serving a splendid dinner.

Wilby G. Hyde, prominent Chillicothe attorney, was the evening's speaker. He, in an interesting manner, described a voyage to England during the past summer and told of his sojourn there.

A learned man, Mr. Hyde was able to almost carry his listeners to the shores of England and view the same scenes he enjoyed so much. He described his journeys to and from the island kingdom, told of a storm experienced during the home voyage, the modes of travel in England, many of the interesting trips he made while there to historical points. One of the highlights of his address was his description of the cathedrals, especially those in ruins.

C. E. Hill, president of the Kiwanis club, was chairman of the meeting with John H. Dunlap, Sr. introducing the speaker.

A number of guests, including all the directors and their wives of the Farmers National bank, Williamsport, who were invited by G. P. Hunsicker, attended.

Announcement was made that the Kiwanis meeting next Monday evening will include the usual supper at Hanley's tearoom at 6:30 o'clock, then a trip to the high school auditorium where motion pictures of two of Ohio State's football games will be shown. John H. Dunlap, Jr., in charge of the program next week, announced that it is possible a member of the coaching staff will be present.

Kline, Wongaloo, Spirit of Selfishness.

Christmas fairies will be Betty Gluth, Kindness; Rosemary Brown Helpfulness; Dorothy Reid, Goodwill; Margaret Boggs, Unselfishness, and Gloria Reid, Love.

Boys of the first and second grades and special education will make up the chorus of rabbits; girls of the first and second grades chorus of snowflakes; boys of third grade, chorus of brownies; girls of first, second, and third grades, chorus of Sunbeams; boys of fourth and fifth grades, chorus of toy soldiers; girls of fourth and fifth grades, chorus of dolls, and sixth grade boys, chorus of Goblins or Wongaloes.

The story of the play centers around Jane, a little girl, who is anxious to find Santa Claus. She knows that he lives in the land of the North Star so she starts out to find him. The woods people will not help her because she is selfish and cross so she wanders into the cave of the Wongalo and is held a prisoner by the Goblins.

About This And That In Many Sports

MONROE AT NEW HOLLAND

The big basketball game in the county this week finds Monroe and New Holland matched on the Holland court—Monroe has not been beaten this year and has been playing fine ball—New Holland is always tough and might spoil the record of Forrest Brown's cagers, both boys and girls, but you can't tell Five Points fans that—With no court to practice on the Monroe teams have been doing real well and hope to continue their successful campaigns * * *

The boys varsity practiced against the Red and Black Monday evening and did real well * * *

OTHER COUNTY CONTESTS

Other games on the county schedule:

Thursday, Scioto at Ashville; Friday, Ashville at Groveport; Muhlenberg at Deer creek; Pickaway at Walnut; Darby at Washington, and Perry at Jackson * * *

TIGERS FACING TEST

A real test is faced Friday evening on the CAC floor by Jack Landrum's Tigers when Columbus Academy invades the city—Bill Hunt, ex-Ohio State luminary, is head man for the crew and always has a fast cage aggregation—Usually the Academy boys have it all over the high school teams they play because of superior experience—Landrum is hoping his cagers can be on when they meet the Columbus invaders * * *

MANY TRADES RUMORED

Talks of trades filled hotels in Chicago today as major league magnates gathered for annual conferences—Just a few of the rumors include Gerald Walker and Elden Auker of Detroit to the White Sox for Al Simmons and Mule Haas, and that Walker and Whitlow Wyatt, hurler, would go to St. Louis for Outfielder Sam West * * *

McPHAIL IS CHAMPION

This year's magnating championship goes to Larry McPhail, Cincinnati Reds—Baseball men laughed when McPhail told them the Reds would make money in 1935—They cleared $100,000 * * * Mickey Cochrane is now, a magnate—He is a vice president and earned more than $50,000 during the past season which really should put him in the magnate class—He's still a pretty good catcher, too * * *

GIANTS GIVE 4 FOR WHITEHEAD

Parmelee, Stout, Weintraub, Cuccinello Listed By Terry.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(INS)—The New York Giants today announced they had acquired Burgess Whitehead, Cardinal infielder, from St. Louis in a straight player trade in which they parted with Leroy Parmelee and Allyn Stout, pitchers, Phil Weintraub, outfielder, and Al Cuccinello, second baseman.

Announcement of the trade supplied the answer to the secret deal concocted between the Giants and Cardinals at Dayton last month.

CARNERA LANDS KAYO

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(INS)—Primo Carnera, former heavyweight champion, was a step further along the comeback trail today. He knocked George (Big Boy) Brackley of Buffalo stiff in the fourth round of a scheduled ten rounder here last night. Brackley was on the floor twice before Carnera landed the knockout punch and never had a chance.

DOG, TAIL—NOW DOG

KENTON.—(INS)—A few days ago, Tom Slean, a farmer residing south of here, owned a big black dog with a beautiful plumed tail. Now he owns a big black dog.

The prized canine ran into the cutter bar of a mowing machine that was standing against a tree in the barn-lot. The impact caused the bar to drop, cutting off considerable portion of the dog's tail.

Hearing the unusual story of a dog that literally cut off its own tail, a neighbor farmer, not to be out-done, reported that one day last week one of his cows bit off three inches of her tongue. McKinley Wenner said he discovered the mishap soon after it happened.

HERMANN TO SUPERVISE W. P. A. WRITERS' PROJECTS

STATE DIRECTOR PUTS LOCAL MAN OVER DISTRICT 11

Material to Be Gathered for "American Guide," History of Communities

James G. Dunton, S. Court-st., state director of writers' projects in Ohio under the federal works projects administration, announced today that Karl J. Herrmann, N. Washington-st., former business manager for The Herald, had been appointed acting supervisor of federal writers' projects in WPA district No. 11.

Mr. Herrmann will supervise gathering of material for the "American Guide," a nationwide compilation which is being prepared by newspapermen, and by writers who have been of the relief rolls. Preparation of this guide will entail much research work by those appointed to the projects in checking and rewriting the history of the locality in which projects are located.

Communities Interested

Since the chief undertaking of the Writers' projects at this time is concerned with collecting and preparing material and data which will be included in the "American Guide Book" and in a proposed "Ohio Guide," the work of this organization in this district should be of interest to all historical societies, civic organizations, educational institutions, and all public spirited citizens who desire to see their home towns well and sufficiently represented in this nationwide guide book or "encyclopedia of America."

Preliminary work on this latest effort of the government to provide appropriate and worthwhile employment for professional and skilled workers, who have been on relief, has already started in some counties. It is expected that the project will be in operation in every city and county of the district within a week.

To Cover Huge Field

In addition to volunteer advisers and consultants, the work will be carried on by personnel from the relief rolls consisting of experienced or trained writers, librarians, research workers, teachers, historians, clergymen, statisticians, scientists, technical experts, and other workers with professional training or experience. A limited number of typists and other clerical help will also be included.

CHIEF'S LETTER READ

For some time the Globe Trotter, broadcasting for the Columbus Dispatch, has been boosting the Columbus toy campaign for firemen.

Chief Talmer Wise of the local fire department felt firemen in some of the smaller cities should also have something to say about the toy business. He wrote the Globe Trotter and asked him to mention small cities.

The chief's letter was read over the air Monday noon.

sensational editorial campaign against Gov. Olson, charging graft in the state administration and demanding impeachment of the governor.

Liggett crusaded against liquor and gambling, and charged Gov. Olson with protecting vendors of gambling devices and gamblers and with favoritism and graft in the state control of the liquor traffic.

The publisher had often predicted he would be "put on the spot" as a result of his "fearless disclosures."

A few weeks ago he was attacked and severely beaten by a gang as he emerged from a cafe. Hospital attendants frightened away a second gang of armed men who attempted to enter Liggett's hospital room while he was convalescing from the first attack. In his paper Liggett charged that Cann was the leader of the two mobs.

Police said that early yesterday Liggett and Shulberg had engaged in a bitter argument over the liquor dealers' demand that the editor stop "putting heat" on Cann in his newspaper.

Liggett's assassination recalled the similar slaying of Howard Guilford, publisher of a weekly of a more radical type than Liggett's. Guilford, a close friend of Liggett, was murdered Sept. 6, 1934, when two unidentified men drove alongside his automobile and blazed away at him with a shotgun.

Liggett demanded apprehension of the slayers and in his editorial columns charged Gov. Olson with responsibility for the murder, declaring Guilford's expose of Olson's "graft" had made his killing necessary to the Olson administration.

Witnessed by Family

There were no witnesses to Liggett's assassination besides Mrs. Liggett and their daughter.

His wife told police the slayer's car was parked in the alley in the rear of their home, apparently awaiting their return from the shopping trip.

As her husband stepped from the auto, his arms full of packages, three shots rang out in quick succession and Liggett fell, the groceries spewing over the ground.

Mrs. Liggett leaped from the auto and rushed to the side of her dying husband.

Little Marda was stunned for a moment, then screamed: "Don't die daddy, don't die!" The slayer's car raced down the alley, turning the corner with a screech of the tires, and disappeared.

In addition to his newspaper and magazine work, Liggett had written a number of books, including "The Rise of Herbert Hoover," and "Pioneers of Justice."

In 1929 he was called as a witness before the District of Columbia grand jury to substantiate charges that thousands of boot-

JAPAN DEMANDS NAVY EQUALITY

5-5-3 Ration Favored By Davis, Hit By Nippon

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(INS)—Japan's demand for equality and a common upper limit placed the five-power naval conference on the verge of crisis today as the delegates down to their first business session.

With the parity heading toward a rocky path while still in its swaddling clothes, Norman H. Davis, leader of the American contingent, supported the present 5-5-3 ratio, which Japan opposes, and declared this system had been successful for thirteen years in maintaining peace and security.

French Ambassador, Charles Corbin suggested limitation of total tonnage. If this proposal is supported by the Japanese, it will face stiff opposition from the United States and Britain.

Admiral Osami is expected to answer questions clarifying the Japanese position at the next meeting tomorrow afternoon. Other delegates consider the Japanese demand for a common upper limit of tonnage to be still some what vaguely presented. He will be asked whether his plan is intended to embrace all navies, including Russia's.

bear upon Ethiopia regarding a settlement. The British insist that any agreement must be equally acceptable to Italy, Ethiopia, and the League of Nations.

Nevertheless, these assertions in themselves indicated trouble, since most Geneva and Addis Ababa sources have labelled the Hoare-Laval plan unacceptable.

Despite authoritative reports that the cabinet had approved the plan in a late session last night, it was admitted while today's meeting was being held that no decision on approving the plan had been reached.

Furthermore, it was admitted discussion of the peace plan was not concluded last night.

At the crux of the crisis lay the charge of many high members of the government that Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare had agreed to the plan with Laval by granting concessions to Italy for which he had no authorization from his home government.

The plan, although its details are secret, is reliably reported to have gone far beyond that offered by the league last October in placating Italy, and reportedly demands far more from Ethiopia

than that which the Emperor rejected in October.

Heading the London opposition to Sir Samuel's action and his plan was his youthful colleague, Anthony Eden, minister for league affairs whose activities in the Italo-Ethiopian controversy have earned him the title in Rome of "Italy's Public Enemy No. 1."
